About the Book

In this captivating memoir, New Zealand author and adventurer Anna McKenzie shares her unforgettable experiences living and working in Papua New Guinea, one of the most culturally diverse and challenging countries on earth.

Anna's journey begins with a volunteer assignment in a remote village, where she quickly learns to adapt to a world vastly different from her own. She immerses herself in the local culture, learns the language, and forms deep connections with the people who become her family away from home.

But Anna's time in Papua New Guinea is not without its challenges. She witnesses firsthand the poverty, corruption, and violence that plague the country. She also struggles with culture shock, language barriers, and personal demons.

Through it all, Anna's resilience and determination shine through. She learns to navigate the complexities of Papua New Guinean society and finds ways to make a positive difference in the lives of others. She discovers a hidden strength within herself and a newfound appreciation for the beauty and diversity of the world.
