Zycinski's unflinching reporting takes us to the front lines of this global crisis, from the bustling streets of Amsterdam to the remote villages of Southeast Asia. He reveals the stories of women and girls coerced into prostitution, forced to endure unimaginable horrors at the hands of ruthless traffickers. He exposes the corrupt officials, negligent law enforcement, and indifferent governments that enable this illicit industry to persist.

But 'Red Light Zone' is not simply a chronicle of despair. It is a testament to the resilience of human spirit and the determination of those who fight to end this scourge. Zycinski introduces us to brave activists, dedicated law enforcement officers, and courageous survivors who are working tirelessly to rescue victims, apprehend traffickers, and dismantle the systems that perpetuate slavery.
